

NACDD Pulse Survey of Chronic Disease Directors

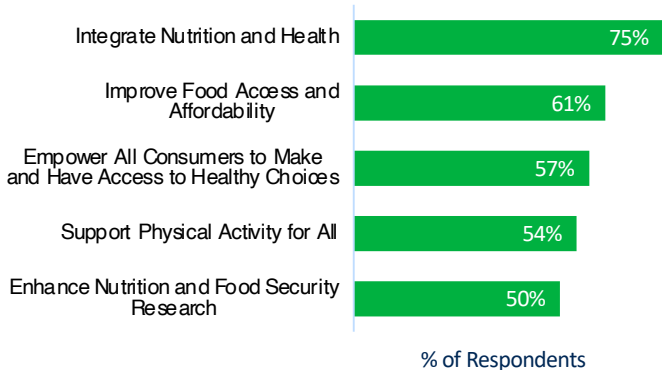

In September 2022, the Biden-Harris Administration released the National Strategy on Hunger, Nutrition, and Health (National Strategy), with the goal of ending hunger and increasing healthy eating and physical activity by 2030. The Pulse Survey of Chronic Disease Directors for the month of February was focused on learning how health departments are addressing the National Strategy.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
|  | Integrate Nutrition and Health |  | Support Physical Activity for All |  |
| Improve Food Access and Affordability |  | Empower All Consumers to Make and Have Access to Healthy Choices |  | Enhance Nutrition and Food Security Research |

The National Strategy is divided into 5 Pillars, and respondents were asked if their health department was implementing or working with partners to carry out any work related to the Call-to-Action strategies in the 5 Pillars.

What Pillars are Respondents Most Interested in Learning About

Training and Technical Assistance Activities Respondents Think Will Be Most Helpful

